Igo Primo download for PC Windows CE . May 25, 2020 .The present invention relates generally to the field of modems, and more particularly to a method for performing a handshaking procedure in a communications modem. A modem is a type of data terminal equipment (DTE) that modulates and demodulates data. A modem may be a separate piece of equipment that connects a remote computer to a local telephone line. For example, a remote computer may transmit data over a telephone network to an audio computer output device such as a PC, which then presents the data as audio, such as voice or music. Alternatively, a remote computer may transmit data over a telephone network to a modem, which then transmits the data to another modem by the local telephone line. In this configuration, the local telephone line is used as a carrier for data transmissions. The local telephone line may support analog signals, such as the signals transmitted by a telephone network. Analog signals may modulate/demodulate data that requires information about the characteristics of the local telephone line, including factors such as impedance, characteristics of other equipment on the local telephone line, and signal attenuation. Such analog signals may also be used to transmit control data, such as information regarding the quality of the telephone line. This type of signal is referred to as an analog loop current,
