I'd like to begin this speech by introducing you to someone. A man who lost his soul and gained his body. His name is Joe Smith and his hobby is pronouncing my name wrong. Joe once called me, "Honey Bunz." And if you're a man who still subscribes to Playboy, there may be a photo of him in the centerfold. Anyway, Joe was a good person. He liked to work with others and was always willing to share his talents and his time. He made a good living and lived a good life. And then he came to me. Joe had already lost his soul. Now he had a body. But there was one problem with his new body. It didn't work very well. Every time I came home from work and he would greet me at the door, I would hear those five words: "I miss my old body." But he had no capacity for the soul, so he had no idea what he was missing. And if I told him, he wouldn't care. Joe had no soul, but now he had a
